About Drishti

'Drishti IAS' was founded on 1st November, 1999. Since then, we have been one of the top institutes among the UPSC Civil Services Examination (CSE) community.

In the recent years, and especially in the Hindi medium, there has been more than a thousand selections from Drishti IAS. We believe students who follow our methods and work hard on our scientifically designed schedule shall achieve success in this examination. With this goal in mind we have finally decided to design, develop and prepare a one-of-a-kind course for English medium aspirants. The primary reason for launching this English medium course is to fill the gap of well structured intensive classes that take the students from the very basics of a subject to the UPSC CSE desired complexity level without over burdening the student.

Our classroom programs are advanced as, they cater to the needs of the aspirants in a variety of ways. For example, we will not only provide regular class notes, but include class-tests based on these notes as well, for best learning outcomes.

Moreover, we will hold class-tests from our magazine, Drishti Current Affairs Today (DCAT), on a monthly basis for developing a thorough understanding of Current Affairs; and we will also provide top quality curated reading material.

Our classroom programmes are intensive – we are not only going to cover the syllabus but also test the aspirants on their retention at the same time.

We have also integrated our web-based learning modules with our classroom program. This will help Drishti students stay updated with the latest developments.

Why Drishti IAS?

The Civil Service Examination (CSE) is considered to be one of the toughest exams, owing to the vast and dynamic nature of its syllabus. It is a challenge for any student to prepare this vast syllabus and get their name on the final list of selected candidates of examination in a limited span of time.

Drishti IAS has prepared a holistic academic programme, addressing the problems faced by the aspirants in CSE preparation, which sets us apart from other institutes. Our holistic academic programme encompasses the following features:

Our Approach towards General Studies

Realising the importance of General Studies, Drishti holds the view that it should be studied in depth and detail, because we are not in favour of selective study. These days, the nature of the question paper is not such that selective study can lead to success. This is the reason our classroom programme focusses on preparing every topic. That's why, our General Studies (Preliminary and Main Examination) batch is for 12-15 months.

Apart from this, we believe that the preparation for Preliminary and Main Exam should be done simultaneously, and not separately because barring a few, most topics are asked in both the exams. The only difference is that in Preliminary exam, the correct answer has to be chosen from very close and difficult options while in Main Exam, the aspects (mainly current and applied) related to those topics have to be explained in your own words. In other words, while the Preliminary Exam tests the meticulous understanding and accurate knowledge of the aspirants, the Main Exam tests the writing skill as well. It is advisable that whichever topics candidates study, they should study them in a manner that they are able to face and excel in both the exams.

Our Faculty Members

The biggest strength Drishti has is its excellence-driven faculty. We have kept the procedure of selection of teachers quite stringent and the decision for appointment and permanency of any teacher is made only after completion of multiple stages of selection. The expert teachers for each section of General Studies are appointed on the basis of meticulous understanding, vast knowledge and interesting presentation skills.

Teaching Methodology

Drishti has a unique teaching methodology which sets us apart from rest of the institutes. Some of the salient features of this teaching methodology are listed below:

- We do not believe in rote learning of any topic without building its proper understanding. Our focus is that each student understand and assimilate the basic concepts. Memorising the fundamental information regarding any topic becomes much easier after one understands it and one is also comfortable answering the indirect and at times, confusing questions.
- Faculty at Drishti do not believe in keeping students busy by writing notes in the class rather, the focus is on explaining the concepts and giving handouts and printed class notes which covers all the relevant information. Only those points have to be written down which are in news for some reason, or demand special analysis.

- All the topics are discussed extensively and interestingly in the class. The students are made to understand the concepts by the use of real life examples.
- An effort is made that even abstract concepts register into the minds of the students in the form of images and videos, by the use of technical inputs like videos, projectors and internet. Smart/ interactive panels.
- The students have the full right and freedom to ask their queries from the teachers.
- If any student has any doubt regarding any concept, event or fact or has any issue in understanding them, the Academic Support team of the institute is also available to help them.
- The questions which have been already asked or those which can be possibly asked are included in the class discussions as important reference points so that the students are not limited to understanding the concepts, but also understand how they can apply their knowledge in the exam. Special discussions are held on the format of the difficult questions of the exam and how to answer them.
- The teaching methodology acknowledges that there should be no unnecessary deviations in the classroom and the course is completed as per the scheduled time line.

Duration and Order of Batches

Drishti Foundation Batch for General Studies (preliminary and main examination) contains around 400 classes.

Each class is 2.5 to 3 hours long. The whole batch lasts for 12-15 months.

Number of classes of each section of General Studies (Pre and Mains examination foundation batch)

Polity	40 classes
Issues Related to Governance	10 classes
History and Art & Culture	65 classes
Indian Economy	40 classes
Geography and Environment & Ecology	55 classes
Disaster Management	7 classes
Indian Society and Social Justice	20 classes
International Relations	30 classes
General Science and Science & Technology	25 classes
Internal Security	8 classes
Ethics, Integrity & Aptitude	50 classes
Total Classes (approx.)	350 classes

Note: In addition to the above mentioned classes, about 30 classes of Current Affairs will also run parallel to other classes.

- Since the Foundation Batch lasts for a period of about one to one and half years, we take special note of the examinations that will be held in this duration. For example, about 1 month of leave is given at the time of UPSC CSE preliminary examination so that the students taking the exam can revise the class notes and study material. Apart from this, the sections that are more important for this stage are completed in the class before the UPSC preliminary examination viz. History, Geography, Economy, Polity, General Science and Current Affairs. After the preliminary examination, sections related to the main examination are taught, such as International Relations, Ethics etc.
- The order of the various sections in all the batches is determined in such a way that the new student does not encounter any problem and progressively moves from simple to difficult sections. Initially sections like History, Polity are taught and Economy and Geography are kept for later stage. Before International Relations, a brief background of World History and World Geography is given so that the student can keep a track of all the information. One or two sections are taught at a time, so that students do not have to face any confusion.
- Generally, classes are organized 6 days a week. A weekly off is given on Sunday although this is not mandatory. If the syllabus in any batch falls behind the prescribed plan, then special classes can be organized on Sunday.
- We try to conduct a test every week in every batch. The advantage of this is that students can continuously evaluate the level of their preparation.

Study Material

Study material constitutes an important part of Drishti's Classroom Programme. Our pedagogy stands on the idea that students have to put the least effort on collecting information. Therefore, we try to provide the students all the study material they need to study in a particular subject. This ensures that they do not have to rely on outside books and sources.

The study material given to the students are prepared in a scientific manner. Mind maps, bullets, flowcharts, memorable facts, etc. are used in the notes so that students can easily understand difficult concepts and assimilate them. With these notes, the 'Drishti Current Affairs Today' magazine and relevant books of Drishti Publications are provided free of cost.

It is worth mentioning, that we have about 300 full-time dedicated content developers for development of study material. All of them have long experience of Civil Services Examination. Along with the development of new study material, these members also keep the content updated and in accordance with changing demands of the examination.

Updates on Current Issues

It is a given to keep updating current events in General Studies. We combat this challenge at the following 5 levels:

- We publish a monthly magazine called 'Drishti Current Affairs Today' for our students. This is a complete magazine for the UPSC CSE and PCS examination (Preliminary, Main and Interview) of various states.
- There are many good articles published in various newspapers and magazines, reading which can create a comprehensive and balanced outlook. As students find it difficult to check out all the newspapers and choose which articles they should read, we compile the most relevant articles from various newspapers and magazines on a regular basis and make them available to students. Along with the articles, we also provide information on what kind of questions can be asked from them.
- In order to score good marks in General Studies, reading good articles and books and notes is indispensable. In this regard, the website of Drishti (www.drishtias.com) provides very useful content. It regularly provides point-by-point analysis of news and articles published daily in PIB/PRS and leading English-language newspapers such as The Hindu & Indian Express. The debates and discussions of Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha TV are analysed in a simple and easy, point wise manner. The website contains abundant updated study material for all sections of General Studies, which will keep your preparation up to date.

- We also have a YouTube channel Drishti IAS: English in order to boost your preparation. Currently, programmes like Strategy, Toppers' interview etc. are being run on this channel.

All these endeavours are just to ensure that our students get quality study material in a simple language which can fill the gap between the demand of the exam and the available information.

Tests and Answer writing Practice

Drishti IAS holds tests on a weekly basis in every batch so that the students get enough opportunity to understand and evaluate their performance.

For preliminary examination, a test is conducted almost every fortnight where the students are given some objective questions based on classroom teaching. Apart from this, OMR sheet is used in weekly/fortnightly tests so that the students get a feel of the actual exam.

The challenge of answer writing for the main examination is of paramount importance. For this we have two strategies

- Tests are conducted every month for the practice of main examination answer writing.
- Students can also practice answer-writing at their own level, the evaluation of which is done by the experts at Drishti IAS. Our academic team consists of 50 full-time members whose responsibility is to evaluate the answers and give feedback for improvement.

Analysis of CSE Prelims Previous Years Papers

The proportion in which questions are going to be asked from the different sections of the syllabus in the General Studies paper is not fixed. Generally, more questions were asked from History, Polity, Environment and Ecology, Economics and Geography, but 2016 witnessed an overhaul in this pattern. This tendency of change of pattern was apparent in the 2019 paper as well. Thus, the proportional distribution of questions is something which is very uncertain. The following table can help you know the proportion of questions asked from various sections from 2012 to 2019.

Segments	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020

STRATEGY: Answer Writing for CSE Mains

It is said that answer writing is an art. The good news is that any form of art can be learnt over a period of time. All it takes is will and effort, regular practice and some guidance. We are here to provide you help with the guidance part and we hope you successfully integrate the tips we are going to provide in your preparation.

As the sections mentioned below suggest, one should proceed step by step, understanding each section completely before proceeding to the next. Ultimately you should be able to use the tips from all sections in your answer writing in a holistic manner.

- Do understand the question fully and correctly before contemplating an answer for it.
- Don't overstretch your imagination.
- Do develop a basic mental framework of the answer before actually committing anything to paper.
- Don't wait for the answer to come to you, instead force it out.

Time Management in the Exam Hall

To Manage time while attempting the Mains examination mean that you know how to allocate the right amount of time to each question so, that you can complete all the questions within 3 hours. The three Rules of Thumb for Time Management in this case are:

- Go with the flow while writing and thinking; learn to trust yourself; do not indulge in self-doubt like being unable to decide whether to write a particular thing or not
- Write in language that comes naturally to you; do not use forced made-up writing styles, and
- Do not get stuck with one question – temporarily leave the question that you are unable to write at a particular moment and move on to the next question; come back to the difficult question as and when you get the opportunity to do so. With practice you should be able to master the time management aspects of the Mains examination.

How to Practice Answer Writing

While practising answer writing, keep in mind that it involves three things primarily. These are the abilities to recall, process and write down thoughts in a streamlined and time-bound manner. To do this you need to cultivate a habit of being able to process information quickly and thoroughly. As such, begin with open-book answer writing – you will have the source/reading material in front of you and you will refer to these while answering a question. You should continue with open-book answer writing till you get comfortable and reasonably quick at it. Then move on to answer writing from memory – read up a topic first and then answer the questions to it. Doing this would also improve your writing speed because writing from memory is faster than writing from an open book. Also don't forget that answer writing is an art, the more you write the better you get. To practice answer writing begin with the CSE previous year's papers which are a great source for quality questions. Now, pick a question on a topic that you may have recently prepared, and simply write the answer to it. Read the answer that you have written multiple times, analyse it and ask yourself whether you have been able to do justice to the question. If yes, then how can you better it and if no, then what have you missed. Always remember that answer writing helps us find gaps in our preparation. At the same time it also helps us get a glimpse into the mind of the examiner. Thus, you should practice answer writing because it will help you not only in knowing what is left in the topic for you to prepare but also what the examiner is looking for in any given topic.

How to Develop a Lucid Answer Writing Style

To develop a lucid answer writing style, first and foremost discard the use of complex language. Use words that have a chance of being universally understood, for example, use allocate instead of bestow. Write simple and easy to understand sentences, for example, read the following sentence from the Economic Times – 'India's agricultural growth will accelerate to 4.1% in the current fiscal from a sluggish 1.2% in drought-hit 2015-16, the Economic Survey said while raising concerns that inadequate supply may lead to a spurt in prices of milk, sugar, potato and onion as happened in the case of pulses last year'. This sentence can be converted to multiple sentences, like 'India's agricultural growth will accelerate to 4.1% this year from last year's 1.2%. Yet, the Economic Survey is concerned that if the supply of milk, sugar, potato and onion does not increase it may lead to a price rise. Last year, the price of pulses had spiked due to a drought.' An advanced strategy for successful answer writing would also be to develop templates for answers that you can recall at a short notice.

For example, you can have a universal answer template consisting of an introduction, body/bullets and a conclusion, or you can have a particular template for answering science-based questions and another for socio-economic ones, etc, or you can have both. It would help tremendously if you can recognise in the exam hall that a given question fits one of your templates (perfectly, or with slight modifications) and all that you need to do now is start writing your answer. In order to develop this template you will need to understand what interrogative directives are and how to approach them.

STRATEGY: Essay Writing for CSE Mains

Broadly speaking, there are two types of essays – formal and informal. In the UPSC Civil Services Examination (CSE), we are concerned with the formal essay. The formal essay is relatively impersonal, the author writes it as an authority and such essays tend to be less emotional. Formal essay can also have factual elements in it, like quoted statistics from a government report etc. It is never in the form of a conversation, never uses first-person references and seldom gets intimate with the audience. In short, a formal essay has a certain degree of seriousness attached to it.

Essay Writing for CSE

- For the CSE essay paper, two essays have to be written under 3 hours in the 1000-1200 word limit. Each essay carries 125 marks for a total of 250.
- The essay paper is divided into two sections – A and B, each carrying a choice of 4 essays each, and the aspirant has to choose only one essay from each section.
- The instructions in the syllabus are clear in what is being expected from the aspirant. Aspirants are 'expected to keep their thoughts closely to the subject and arrange their ideas accordingly. It further states that, credit will be given for effective and coherent expression'.

Basic Structure of an Essay

- The most common method of structuring an essay is breaking it up into paragraphs. In this technique, besides the introduction and the conclusion, there will be body-paragraphs. In these body-paragraphs, the aspirant will have to fit in all his content.
- Body-paragraphs can broadly be supportive, critical or narrative. Ideally, one can start any argument in an aptly phrased narrative paragraph which describes the topic in some detail and then move on to a supportive paragraph containing a few positive facts/ideas on the topic. Though critical paragraphs look best when they are placed last, there are no such rules, and for some topics it can be used as the opening paragraph for the topic.
- The most important part of the essay is perhaps the introduction. First impressions are very important, and a well thought out introduction will definitely make a positive impression on the examiner. Similarly, the conclusion is where one can score additional marks if done properly.

A good essay needs planning. There are three steps to it – defining or understanding what the essay is going to be about in very clear terms, brainstorming on the topic and thirdly, devising the outline of the essay.

Planning to Write an Essay

All CSE essays have a thesis statement. For example, in CSE 2016, the following essay was asked – 'Innovation is the key determinant of economic growth and social welfare'. Here the central idea is 'innovation'. The aspirant is supposed to explore those dimensions of innovation that affect 'economic growth and social welfare'. In doing so, the aspirant should not veer from the central topic of innovation but if possible add a few related ideas which may supplement the overall central idea that not only socio-economic but also other areas like technology and culture are affected by forces of innovation.

Brainstorming for Essay Writing

Brainstorming for an essay is a crucial step. Brainstorming helps you get all the ideas at one place for quick reference. There are no hard and fast rules, but typically one can begin with the given topic and immediately start listing the things that come to mind. One can ideally devote an entire page for this exercise.

Adding Elements to the Essay

- Any good essay will definitely have a multitude of elements and dimensions to it. For CSE essay writing, there are certain basic rules that one can follow while searching for these elements and dimensions.
- The first of such rules would be to follow and uphold Constitutional values at all times. This is very crucial for essay writing in CSE, that the values enshrined in our Constitution reflect in whatever idea, problem or solution we discuss in the essay. At no point should one try and support an idea that is unconstitutional.
- One must also be democratic while addressing issues. The concepts of 'freedom and equality' should be the guiding principles while suggesting solutions and while criticising events or issues.
- Generally, one must also avoid taking absolutist/non-compromising positions. In fact, the best way to handle complex problems is to find the middle ground.
- One must also try not to make sweeping generalisations on any given issue. Instead, there should be hints of patience, justice and understanding in addressing or discussing any given topic.
- Lastly, there are two more things that an aspirant needs to keep in mind while attempting the CSE essay. (A) Do not question the topic itself, which is to say, in other words, do not contradict yourself.

Elements in an Essay

- The three basic elements – social, political and economic – form the bedrock of a good CSE essay.
- To these, one may add other dimensions like Constitutional, legal, technological, technical etc.
- Another important element is the personal good experiences or anecdotes that can be used to increase the effectiveness of the essay but these should stay within the accepted framework of ethical conduct.

Writing an Essay

Sticking to the Time Limit

In the CSE, one has to write two essays in 3 hrs which translates into 1 hr 30 minutes for each essay. Out of this, around 45 minutes to 1 hour will be required to write one essay. One can add another 10 minutes for the revision of one essay. This leaves us with roughly 30 minutes of time to prepare the essay in rough, and it includes time for carrying out the brainstorming and outlining exercises.

How to Introduce the Essay

- The goal of the introduction should be to arouse the reader's interest in the topic and to prepare the reader for what is to follow.
- A good introduction to the essay can be a brief explanation of the essay topic itself. It can be made further interesting by adding to it some personal experience, or some relevant anecdotes or quotes
- The introduction should not be confusing or lacking in clarity, rather it should be able to immediately clear up any doubts regarding the topic if there is any.

Writing in Paragraphs

- In a stand-alone paragraph, the concluding sentence announces that the paragraph is finished, complete. In an essay, the concluding sentence of a paragraph is more likely to play the role of a transitional device, joining one paragraph to the next.
- Flow is very important in an essay. It is also connected to writing order. Writing orders are of two types
- Known-to-New is the order of writing where the author by choice goes from known (given) concepts to unknown ones. New material is gradually added to build on the unknown.
- Simple-to-Complex is the order of writing where the author first establishes a base of concepts that are easily understood and then develops over it increasingly complex ideas.
- One can use the FREQOES method to add matter to the various paragraphs.

How to Conclude the Essay

- The purpose of the conclusion is to bring a smooth end to the essay. It is also important to note that a strong finish is as important as a strong opening. Both are important for scoring better marks.
- The essay can be concluded in the following ways – restating the main points in brief and with different wordings (summarizing), suggesting a way forward or a course of action, or adding an interesting personal comment or any relevant anecdote.
- Another way to conclude the essay is by returning to the discussion begun in the introduction. This is called the ‘cyclic return’ and a lot of essays follow this simple method of concluding an essay.
- The conclusion should bear a positive outlook, it should see the silver lining in the clouds. It should also be as clear and concise as possible.

SOME TIPS ON ESSAY WRITING

One can go through the CSE previous year's essays and understand the concepts, dimensions and solutions required to solve those. Having a simple understanding of complex social problems is the secret to writing a good essay for the CSE.

One can also keep handy a small collection of quotes or quotable phrases and citable anecdotes to be used while writing the essay. This keeps one prepared for writing any type of essay.

STRATEGY: Preparing for the Personality Test

What is personality? Personality is defined as ‘the combination of characteristics or qualities that form an individual's distinctive character’. Two things are evident from this definition – first it is about who you truly are and second that it cannot be acquired in a short period of time. In the CSE, the definition of personality would also include the possession of qualities required to function properly as a bureaucrat. Out of many things, three top-most qualities in a bureaucrat are the ability to estimate correctly the depths and nuances of an issue, the desire to overcome bottlenecks and time constraints in order to deliver services and lastly the aptitude to learn from past assessments on issues so as to further improve future solutions. How to prepare for the personality test?

Here we will divide the strategy into two parts. Part one will be a general strategy aimed at achieving personality development in the mid to long term. Part two will focus on the immediate course of action one must take before appearing in the CSE personality test.

Part - I

The following four steps you will need to follow while preparing exclusively for the personality test. This works best if you have ample time to begin with, for example those who are only starting with their CSE preparation. You need to follow these steps because the results of these exercises will get subsumed into your consciousness and will become part of who you are.

Step: 1 Read – you must read. Read books, blogs, newspapers, magazines etc. Make reading your second nature, a habit. Read widely, do not restrict yourself to the text books, read novels and poetry, read newspapers, remember you are not reading to pass an exam, you are reading to develop your own inner self. After you have read something, ponder on it, add your own thoughts to it, make it personal and most importantly reflect on it keeping the CSE in mind. Over the course of time your vocabulary, ideas and understanding will grow and you will yourself start noticing changes in your thought patterns!

Step: 2 Speak – speak your heart out. First choose your language for the personality test. It is very important that you speak fluently, confidently and without hitches. In order to achieve this do this simple exercise – talk to a mirror. It helps in three ways, first it will create and boost self confidence, second it will help connect speech to facial expressions and third it will remove any inhibitions you may have with speaking out your emotions. After continuing with this exercise for sometime you should proceed to speaking with other people, for example, friends, relatives, teachers, colleagues and even strangers. You will notice that all it takes for fluency is practice and clarity of thought. It can even be recommended that you go for public speaking. Participate in healthy debates and discussions. Once these barriers are broken, speaking fluently in the CSE interview will be a breeze!

Step: 3 Behave – imbibe the right behaviours. It is extremely difficult to learn new behaviours let alone follow them. But for the sake of our betterment we must not leave it at that. First, we must identify what is good behaviour and what type of behaviour is expected from a bureaucrat. Yes, we all have notions on what good behaviour is, problem is not in identification of such behaviours but following them. Also, we must identify what sort of behaviour is expected of a bureaucrat. Without thinking twice we should be able to name these – truthfulness, honesty, calmness, empathy, compassion, respectful, self-control, non-reactionary, careful and responsible etc.

Step: 4 Dress – choose to wear comfortably yet formally. A certain degree of formality is expected of potential bureaucrats and the clothes you choose to wear determines whether you are being formal or informal. If you dress casually most of the time, like we do in everyday jeans and t-shirts, then you should familiarize yourself with dressing formally with a shirt and tie. Women candidates may wear traditional dresses or formal wear which are not very bright or colourful – dressing in sober colours can be safely recommended here.

Now let us wrap up part one of the strategy and get to the part where we see how to exclusively prepare for the CSE interview after the Mains are over. As is well known, the interview is a personality test where more than testing your knowledge, your personality is tested. But that doesn't mean one can completely ignore most of the questions that will be asked by the interview board. You will at least have to answer a few questions correctly. Even though confidence is key to scoring at the interview, it would be pointless to say no to most questions put by the interview board regardless of the level of confidence you exhibit. Therefore as a rule of thumb it is always better to answer correctly with confidence than to not answer with the same confidence. Only if the question is completely out of your orbit say 'I don't know the answer to this question'.

Part - II

The CSE personality test has two important aspects to it which can be turned into advantages if these aspects are properly understood and prepared. These are the Detailed Application Form (DAF) and the generic questions (for example, why do you want to join the Civil Services? etc).

The possibility of questions being asked from a candidate's background (as detailed in the DAF) is high. Therefore we will guide you step-by-step on how to prepare from the DAF.

- As a rule, always read up on the meaning of your name and surname, the significance of your place of birth or hometown and the political administrative who's-who of your residing state and district (who is the CM, DM, DSP etc). For the place of birth or hometown dig deep into its history, demography, economy etc and for your name look up its origins (esp. if mythologically important) and the message it conveys (if any).
- Questions have been asked about the places a candidate has lived in. For example, if you have moved out of your hometown for studies then questions can be put on your knowledge of the place you have moved to. Typical questions on this topic are on comparisons between your hometown and place of study (or work etc) and on urban-rural considerations if the situation arises.
- Next comes a candidate's parents (job profile, business etc), his family background and profession (if any). Questions asked here are not in the form of a scrutiny but only informative in character. Also if a candidate has been working prior to appearing in the CSE it is expected that he knows sufficiently on his former work.
- One of the most important topics to prepare from the DAF is on one's education and career. Often questions are asked on the subjects a candidate had chosen for his graduation. Also, questions have been asked on favourite subjects, on why a candidate has selected a subject different from the one he graduated in for the CSE and also on why a particular subject chosen for the CSE in the first place. For example - If an engineering student chooses a Humanities subject as an optional, there may be a question related to this switch of the stream.
- The questions on one's hobbies are common and can be tricky so, it is best to prepare this topic carefully.
- Service preferences can also be a source for questions in the personality test. The general preference is IAS, IFS, IPS and if this preference hierarchy breaks then a question can be asked on it.
- After the DAF what remains are knowledge of current events and development of opinions on these events. Read the newspaper religiously, with special focus on editorials and columns but exercise your own opinion on most matters. Go for simple solutions and if possible ignore ideological and political leanings - stay on the middle path when in doubt. Combine these opinions with your education and life experience. Make these opinions your own and share them with confidence.
