Constitutional morality refers to adherence to values of equality, liberty, justice, fraternity and more as enshrined in the Indian Constitution.

As a Restraint

- Limits power of state and ~~the~~ risk of majoritarianism in a democracy, that may undermine rights of individual & especially minorities.
- Nauty Singh Johar Case - ^{SC} decriminalised homosexuality, emphasising that popular morality can not override constitutional morality.
- Sabrimala Case - court put an end to discriminatory practices against women with respect to temple entry.

As an Enabler .

- It empowers vulnerable sections and individuals to ensure opportunity for development, dignity and justice.
- Joseph Shine Case — Adultery was decriminalised — (equality & ~~justice~~ dignity)
- Shayara Bano case — Triple Talag (Talag-e-Biddat) was declared unconstitutional (Constitutional morality over religious freedom)
↳ discriminatory ↴

In a heterogeneous society like India, constitutional morality acts as both a safeguard & a guiding light to better our society & legislations in line with modern humanistic, developmental & equitable principles.

Tribunals are quasi-judicial institutions added ^{to} as the provisions of Art 323A and 323B by the 42nd constitutional amendment act, 1976 for fields like taxation, administration, environment and more.

Role of tribunals have expanded with LPG reforms & neo-liberal policies, specified nature of the cases it undertakes (eg: Green Tribunal for Environmental cases) and easing judiciary load.

The Tribunal Reforms Act, 2021 vested greater concerns to tribunals.

Tribunals are not bound by procedures of BNS & BNSS, making them uniquely inclined to PONJ.

Challenges to Independence & Efficiency

- Abolition & merger of various tribunals has led to reduced specificity and case overload.
- Chandra Kumar Case - SC mentioned appeal to High Court available, reducing the purpose of tribunals as it cannot function as a binding verdict.
- Unfilled vacancies, infrastructure lags, technical nature of cases & unsuitable appointees further reduced efficiency.

Therefore, there is a need to check & oversee effectiveness of tribunals, using modern technology like e-Tribunals and AI.

Contemporary Relevance

Socialism
~~socialism~~

→ India's mixed model economy and neo-liberal reforms has indeed helped India to further its welfare motives due to increased money through taxes.

eg: All time high allocation to welfare schemes like MGNREGA, PM Kaushal Vikas.

Secularism

→ SC in Sri Bommai Case declared secularism as basic features of the constitution.

Explicit mention of the word therefore will not mean an ideological shift but stronger commitment to these values, ~~to~~ if based on constitutional morality

(Candidate must not write on this margin)

Introduction of GST through 101st Constitutional Amendment Act was a significant reform in India's fiscal structure, aiming to better state's position and ease for citizens.

However, concerns of fiscal imbalance still persists between centre & states:

Causes of Imbalance

→ High tax revenue for centre rather than states.

eg. Agri land is non taxable in state list

→ Performance based grants — empowering more to already well performing states & not to ones in need (eg. Bihar)

→ Tax & surcharges - to not be shared with states.

→ Cap on borrowing of states to 3% of GDP but no such cap for Centre.

Cons

→ Centrally Sponsored Schemes - add load to state expenditure (40%) on schemes launched by centre (and not states)

GST's impact on financial autonomy

- GST has integrated India's indirect tax into a uniform tax (One nation one tax)
- Increased collection of revenue.
- safeguarded by GST compensation in initial years by central govt
- But → reduced autonomy to tax like VAT earlier.
- hindrance in approving crude oil, petrol & alcohol in GST.

Therefore, GST has improved & simplified tax collection for both centre & states but a next gen reforms are the need of the hour to address demands of states.

Affirmative Action is a worldwide accepted process for developing a preferential treatment for historically marginalised.

In India Affirmative Action was chosen by the constituent with an aim to empower and emancipate ~~new~~ downtrodden people due to various socio-economic disabilities (caste, gender, poverty).

Means of Affirmative Action in India

↳ Reservation at local bodies.

↳ SC, ST — in proportion of population

↳ women — 1/3rd across all posts

↳ OBC — upto state governments.

Therefore, it has resulted in representation of communities in political sphere and education institutions

It has also led to castisation of politics due to caste based political parties.

However, there have been many lags in transformation & a few reverses as well

↳ SC, ST representation in higher civil service and judiciary is still very low.

- Desamkritisation
- Race for backwardness
 - ↳ demands for reservation like Maratha agitation.
 - Social structure of caste hasn't been broken completely, especially in rural areas.

Therefore, true benefits of affirmative action will be seen only when society's fault lines see a reduction and we eventually move towards a time bound reduction in reservation. But it is a long journey ahead involving capacity building & not just representation.
