Despite various laws and policies in place, the country still grapples with high rates of gender-based violence.
 - India has one of the highest rates of violence against women in the world. According to the National Crime Records Bureau (NCEB), in 2021, a total of 4,05,861 cases of crimes against women were reported in India, of which 32,033 cases were of rape.
 - However, experts suggest that these numbers only represent a fraction of the actual cases, as many cases of gender-based violence go unreported due to societal stigma, fear, and lack of trust in the legal system.

Body

- Challenges in Addressing Gender-Based Violence:
 - The challenges in addressing gender-based violence in India are multi-faceted.
 - Patriarchal Attitude: One of the significant challenges is the deep-rooted patriarchal attitudes and gender stereotypes that perpetuate violence against women.
 - Women are often seen as inferior and subordinate to men, leading to discriminatory practices such as female infanticide, dowry deaths, and honor killings.
 - Lack of Awareness: There is a lack of awareness and understanding of gender-based violence among the general public and law enforcement agencies.
 - The police and judiciary have been criticized for their insensitive handling of cases of gender-based violence, leading to a lack of trust among victims.
- Addressing Gender-Based Violence:
 - There are various ways in which India can address gender-based violence and promote the safety and security of women. Some of these are:
 - Increasing Awareness and Education: Education and awareness campaigns should be conducted to sensitize the public about the issue of gender-based violence.

- This can include school-based education programs, community-level campaigns, and public awareness through various media platforms.
- Strengthening Legal Framework: The legal framework for gender-based violence needs to be strengthened, including strict implementation of existing laws and policies.
 - There is also a need to expand the definition of gender-based violence to include various forms of violence against women, such as sexual harassment, stalking, and domestic violence.
- Improving Access to Justice: The judiciary system should be made more accessible and friendly towards women.
 - This can include setting up fast-track courts, increasing the number of female judges and lawyers, and providing free legal aid to women who cannot afford it.
- Empowering Women: Empowering women through education, economic opportunities, and political participation can help in reducing the incidence of gender-based violence.
 - Women should be encouraged to report cases of violence and participate in decision-making processes at all levels.
- Examples of Successful Interventions:

 - One-Stop Centers (OSC): The OSC is a facility that provides various services to women who are survivors of gender-based violence, including medical, legal, and counseling services.
 - These centers have been established across the country, and their success has been demonstrated through increased reporting of cases and improved access to justice for women.
 - Nirbhaya Fund: The Nirbhaya Fund was established in 2013 to support initiatives aimed at enhancing the safety and security of women.
 - The fund has supported various projects, including setting up of women helplines, GPS-enabled panic buttons in public transport, and safe city initiatives.
