Dokra

- Dokra is a form of ancient bell metal craft practiced by the Ojha metalsmiths living in states like Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh, Odisha, West Bengal and Telangana.
- However, the style and also the workmanship of this artisan community varies in different states.
- Dhokra or Dokra, is also known as bell metal craft.
- The name 'Dhokra' comes from the Dhokra Damar tribes, who are the traditional metal smiths of West Bengal.
 - Their technique of lost wax casting is named after their tribe, hence Dhokra metal casting.
 - The Dokra artifacts are made in brass and are unique in that the pieces do not have any joints.
 - The method is combining metallurgical skills with wax techniques employing the lost wax technique, a unique form where mould is used only once and broken, making this art the only one-of-its-kind in the world.
 - The tribe extends from Jharkhand to Orissa to as far ahead to Chattisgarh, Rajasthan and even Kerala.
- Each figurine takes about a month to make.
- The dancing girl of Mohenjo-Daro (Harrapan Civilization) is one of the earliest dhokra artefacts that is now known.
- Dokra Art is still used to craft artefacts, accessories, utensils and jewellery.
